Talk with your baby all day long.

Describe the weather or which apples you are choosing at the grocery. Talk about the pictures in a book or things you see on a walk. Ask questions. By listening, your child learns words, ideas, and how language works.

Keep reading short, simple, and often.
Toddlers frequently have shorter attention spans than babies. Look for text that is short and simple. Read a little bit, several times a day.

Reading or telling stories can also be a safe way to explore strong emotions, which can help your child understand new or frightening events. Books about going to the dentist or hospital, starting preschool or making new friends will help your child learn about the world around him.
